REMARKS

Examiner rejected claims 20-37 under 35 USC 112, first paragraph, as lacking support in the specification.

Applicant traverses these rejections for the following reasons.

(a) The specification is written in such manner as to be readily understandable by a person having ordinary skill in the art to which the claimed subject matter pertains.

Such a person would readily recognize that the various aspects of the claimed invention that Examiner contends not to be supported by the specification are in fact fully supported in that they represent nothing more than features that are inherent in the disclosed subject matter.

For instance, Examiner asks: where is the support for recitation; in claim 1 ... ".. during said part of each half period, the instantaneous absolute magnitude of the high freq AC voltage being substantially equal to half the low-frequency AC voltage".
